

Gaby Umbach is Founding Director of “GlobalStat” and co-directs the projects “Global Governance by Indicators” and “On the Political Economy of Measuring State Capacity and Governance” at the Global Governance Programme of the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies at the EUI in Florence. She holds a PhD in Political Science from the University of Cologne, where she was Senior Research Associate of the Jean Monnet Chair for Political Science and the Seminar for Social Policy from 2000 to 2014. In 2009 her dissertation on the European Employment Strategy was awarded the Stiftung Demokratie prize for outstanding research on democratic decision-making within the EU. In 2010 she joined the GGP for a Jean Monnet Fellowship and became part of the GGP faculty in 2011. Since July 2015 she serves as Book Review Editor of the Journal of Common Market Studies (JCMS) and during the winter terms 2015/16 and 2016/17 she teaches as Adjunct Professor at the University of Cologne. Her fields of expertise include database design; sustainable development; evidence-based policy-making and global governance by indicators; multi-level and new modes of governance; European integration studies and theories; environmental, employment and socio-economic policies; EU constitutionalisation and institutionalisation; and EU enlargement.